

TenStep License and Deployment Advantage

Project management methodologies provide a framework that allows teams to successfully manage and execute projects. Few organizations view the creation, update and maintenance of a project management methodology as one of their core business competencies. Using the TenStep process allows your company to outsource the creation of a methodology, freeing up your people to work on providing value to your clients. Licensing of the TenStep process is also much less expensive than having internal resources build and maintain an internal project management methodology for your organization.

While there are a myriad number of options for deploying methodology, one thing is clear – there is more to it than just providing training. Implementing a methodology requires that people change how they are doing their job. This means that the deployment effort should be seen as a culture change initiative. You need a holistic, multi-faceted approach to be successful.

This multi-faceted approach is defined on the Deployment Strategy and Deployment Plan. Once you license the TenStep Project Management Process, let us help you create an actionable Deployment Plan in a focused, time-boxed, one-week engagement. We have the expertise to help you create a Deployment Strategy and Deployment Plan that is right for you.

The TenStep, Inc. License and Deployment Advantage includes:

- A TenStep Project Management Process company license
- A Current State Assessment of your capabilities
- A Future State Analysis of where you want to be
- A Deployment Strategy for getting you to the future state
- A more detailed Deployment Plan that describes the details required to get you to the future state

In addition, we can also manage and help you staff the subsequent Deployment Project.

Deploying a methodology is not a trivial affair. If you are really serious about your organization adopting the new methodology, you must define and plan a Project Management Deployment Project.

We've done it before and we can help you get there. Make sure you don't miss an important step in the journey.

TenStep - we help you raise the bar!
